Recreational Fishers 'One an All'
Get out this Sunday 6th of March 2011 and lend a hand to clean up all our favourite fishing locations around Sydney Harbour, Botany Bay and New South Wales.

The Recreational Fishing Alliance of NSW is calling on and encouraging every recreational fisher around New South Wales, to get out and about this Sunday 6th March, to help clean up your favourite fishing spots.

It is really simple to find and register your interest to lend a hand at one of the existing sites, just enter your postcode, and then select a site to join. Or why not get your fishing club to register their own favourite fishing site(s) and coordinate the clean up, with your local council.

Go to the Clean up Australia Web site <http://www.cleanupaustaliaday.org.au/> and follow the links to:

Create your own Site. <http://www.cleanupaustaliaday.org.au/register/>
Or
Join an existing site. <http://www.cleanupaustaliaday.org.au/join/>

Make sure you wear your fishing club shirt or colours, take a few high quality pictures before you start and after your finish, as well as all the rubbish collected. If you can separate the fishing rubbish with general rubbish, then grab a picture of this side by side.

Then contact your local newspaper and speak to a journalist or the editor, provide some background and the pictures in an email to have your achievements on show for all to read and see.

Please remember, keeping our environment clean is an all year round job,
So do your part before leaving your favourite fishing spot, bag up all the rubbish and bin it.
Or take it home with you to bin later.
