

Recreation Fishing Alliance of NSW

News Bulletin 23

6th August 2006

Recreational Fishing Alliance of NSW gets online!

www.rfansw.com.au

The Recreational Fishing Alliance of NSW is progressively moving forward with its popularity. More and more anglers, Associations and Fishing clubs are becoming involved with matters that affect their sport or recreation.

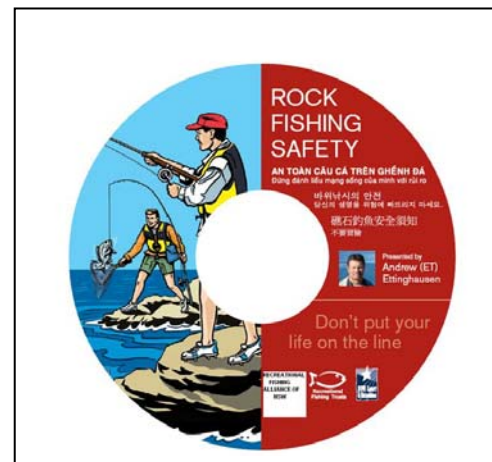

Coinciding with the release of the rock safety DVD, "Don't Put Your Life on the Line" in conjunction with the March 2006 edition of Fishing World, the Recreational Fishing Alliance of NSW has now updated, upgraded and posted their NEW website. The website has been up and running for a couple of months. The new website address is www.rfansw.com.au

On the website you will find plenty of useful information dealing with both recreational and political issues. You can find out all about the Recreational Fishing Alliance of NSW. You can view its constitution, its policies and its projects in progress. Find out about our members and how they involve themselves in various fields and different issues.

Download all the latest news or search our archives for past points of interest. And for those that have not yet got a copy of the new rock safety DVD "Don't Put Your Life on the Line", you can download it for FREE from the website. Remember if you would like a hard copy of the DVD just simple contact me, Joe Garufi the Publicity Officer on my mobile number 0417 491 868 or via fax on (02) 9661 9297 and give me your details.

For those on the email, have a look at the Recreational Fishing Alliance's website. Go to "Contacts" and send me an email. You can even go into "Rock Fishing Safety" and send your details from there. I am ready to send out copies of the DVD for your distribution and viewing.

Joe Garufi
Publicity Officer
Recreational Fishing Alliance of NSW

To subscribe/unsubscribe to this news bulletin contact the RFA of NSW at RFANSW